

THE HUNGER MOUNTAIN BOYS

ARTIST OVERVIEW:

The Hunger Mountain Boys have been performing on the club and festival circuit since early 2003. Founders, Kip Beacco and Teddy Weber have since toured coast to coast, shared the stage with dozens of legendary performers, performed on National Public Radio and Public Radio International, released two full-length albums and one vinyl single, and won over audiences from rock clubs to folk festivals and coffee houses to large theatres. Their songwriting won them first place in the 2003 Mountain Stage NewSong Festival songwriting contest, and some of their original material is featured on King of Bluegrass, the 2003 Jimmy Martin documentary.

After adding a third member (Matt Downing of Jim & Jennie and the Pinetops) in April of 2006, The Hunger Mountain Boys have released their third album, titled "Three", and are now on tour in support of the cd and continue to spread their brand of music around the country, as well as in Canada and Europe.

NOT Including festivals, The Hunger Mountain Boys have shared the stage with legendary performers such as Taj Mahal, Del McCoury, Tim O'Brien, Iris Dement, Doc Watson, Ralph Stanley and The Clinch Mountain Boys and many others.

"[The Hunger Mountain Boys] blow right past 1960's pop revival and kick it even older-school with sweet pieces of twangy, acoustic Americana that has a '30's and '40's feel"

BOSTON GLOBE - 3/28/06

"It is only the sonic clarity and warmth of their recording that makes you realize that you are not actually living in the past, but hearing its immaculate recreation.....These guys believe."

DIRTY LINEN MAGAZINE

"guaranteed to raise goosebumps. Expect to hear much more from the Hunger Mountain Boys."

BLUEGRASS UNLIMITED MAGAZINE

"They're the next big duo... the singing and playing is very sharp, right on the money... this act will continue to rise, and quickly."
